

Pharmaceutical Diversion Investigative Training Seminar

June 17, 2009 – June 18, 2009
Rutgers University, Cook Campus
59 Biel Road
New Brunswick, NJ

Presented by:

Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA)

In Cooperation with:

Middlesex County Prosecutor's Office
Rutgers University Police Department

DEA

NEW JERSEY DIVISION

The Drug Enforcement Administration New Jersey Division will be conducting a two day seminar on Pharmaceutical Diversion Investigations. This training program is designed to prepare the police officer and other law enforcement officials to recognize specialized problems and contemporary issues associated with the diversion of pharmaceutical controlled substances and federally regulated chemicals. Topics which to be covered will include the DEA Diversion Program, Internet Pharmaceutical Diversion, Emerging Trends in Pharmaceutical Use and Abuse, Undercover Issues, and Methods of Diversion.

The objective of this course is to enable law enforcement personnel to recognize and identify the current methods of diversion and to determine and implement the investigative process that can be used for overall prosecutorial success.

*Abuse of controlled prescriptions drugs is a major problem in the United States. According to a July 2005 report from The National Center on Addiction and Substance Abuse (CASA) at Columbia University, the number of Americans who abuse controlled prescription drugs nearly doubled from 1992 to 2003 and abuse among teens more than tripled during that same time period. Americans abusing controlled prescription drugs exceed the number abusing cocaine, heroin, hallucinogens, and inhalants, combined.

For more information and registration, please contact the DEA New Jersey Division
Program Analyst Denise Molloy at denise.x.molloy@usdoj.gov or (973) 776-5128.